MCS achieves ISO 14001 Environmental Management certification

MCS is proud to announce that it has successfully attained ISO 14001 Environmental Management System certification.

This certification is in addition to MCS's existing ISO 9001 (Quality), AS 4801 and OHSAS 18001 (Health and Safety) certifications.

ISO 14001 is the international standard that specifies requirements for an effective Environmental Management System (EMS). It provides a framework that an organization can follow including context of the organization, leadership, planning, support, operation, performance evaluation and improvement in relation to the Environment.

ISO 9001 (Quality), AS 4801 and OHSAS 18001 (Health and Safety) Certification cover core safety and quality systems of the business which include recruitment, training, operating procedures, risk assessments, hazard identifications, safe working, toolbox meetings, incident investigations and root cause analysis, client feedback, key performance indicators, internal auditing, data reporting and continuous improvement processes.

The independent audits were made by Ashburton Assurance.

MCS Managing Director, Paul Simmons said:

"This further certification places MCS with the very few security organisations who have achieved all four certifications Health, Safety, Environment and Quality (HSEQ). I would particularly like to thank our HSEQ manager and all the staff for their efforts and commitments to these processes. This further certification is a major milestone in the progress of our Company."
